AMATA BOARDS THE ARK

The Actor's Ark Theatre and The Academy of Media and Theatre Arts (AMATA) join forces this month to bring some new and exciting theatre to the Bay Area.

AMATA is a new, professionally oriented program dedicated to the teaching and producing of theatre, video, radio and film work for and by children and young people. Working with Western Public Radio (another FM resident) local media artists, and their own core staff, the Academy offers many classes year-round for 10-19 year-old students.

The Actor's Ark is celebrating its tenth anniversary by opening a new intimate, comfortable theatre in Building F at FM. The Ark's company will continue to produce rarely performed, contemporary and classical theatre "masterpieces" in this new theatre.

First to open this month at The Ark is AMATA's production of TOAD OF TOAD HALL, a rollicking musical adaption of Kenneth Grahame's children's classic, WIND IN THE WILLOWS. The audience will follow Mr. Toad and his friends Badger, Rat and Mole through their many adventures in the Wild Woods. Performances are Saturdays May 2 and 9 at 11:00 & 2:00, May 3 at 2:00 and Sunday May 10 at 2:00 & 7:00. For information and reservations call 776-4720.

Following is the Ark's production of Bertolt Brecht's THE RESISTIBLE RISE OF ARTURO Ui, a Bay Area premiere. This parable traces the dubious career of a small town "30's gangster as he takes over the protection racket in Chicago and nearby Cicero. The parallels to Hitler's early rise to power are evident and often devastating. Performances are May 12 through June 14. Thursday through Friday performances at 8:30, Sunday performances at 2:00. For information and reservations phone 441-2453.

Sharing space, designers, personnel and the philosophy that a theatre piece is a living communal experience to be shared by artists and audiences of all ages and backgrounds, these two groups are jointly committed to producing fine live theatre for the entire family.

FRIENDS BENEFITS

HISTORY ALOUD

All history is written selectively. Some people are included, and their roles loom large in our memories. Some people are excluded, most of us don't know they ever existed.

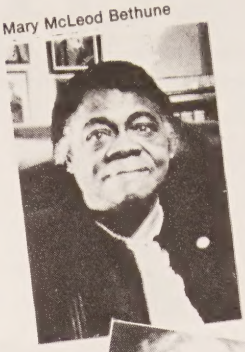
People Speaking, an organization dedicated to increasing effective citizen participation in society, is presenting a special pilot project called History Aloud, a series of live dramatic dialogues between influential women leaders omitted from American history books.

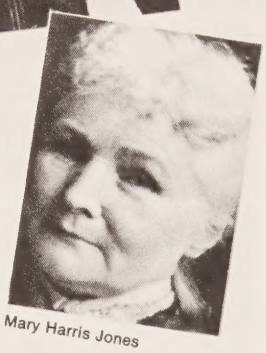
For hundreds of years, many people, especially women & minorities, have been historically invisible. This invisibility has contributed to the commonly held idea that women & minorities are second class citizens whose predecessors have not contributed to their country's history. This lack of historical role models has prevented many people from full participation in the decision making processes which shape their lives. Focusing on these issues, History Aloud, created by blending theatre arts & historical fact, offers a unique experience to "meet" women from America's past. The 1st dialogue will introduce audiences to Mary McLeod Bethune & Mary Harris "Mother" Jones, two women who were well known & highly regarded during their lives but whom most people do not know today.

Mother Jones, labor organizer in the early days of America's Industrial Revolution, participated in the Homestead Strike of 1892 against Carnegie Steel, organized the March of the Mill Children in 1903, & was active in the formation of the United Mine Workers of America. She was fearlessly committed to the struggle of the working class.

Mary Bethune, a black educator, dedicated her life to assuring education for her people & founded a school for girls which in 1925 became Bethune-Cookman College. A visible opponent of discrimination, she was influential in the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration & active in the formation of the United Nations.

Mary McLeod Bethune





Mary Harris Jones

The writings of Mother Jones & Mary Bethune form the basis of the dramatic script, audiences will be able to experience the past as it is revealed in the actual words of these women. In conversation, using their own speaking styles, they will go back in time, putting their lives & achievements in historical perspective. Thus, these two women, their lives & achievements in historical visibility by History Aloud, provide exciting & dynamic role models for all Americans today.

Performances are on May 29, at 7pm & May 31 at 1pm. All performances are free. If you are interested in scheduling a performance contact Suzanne Irwin-Wells, 383-9657.

BARGAINS FOR BOOK LOVERS

Books! Books! Books!

Thirty-five thousand of them—from Art to Zoology. Big books, little books. Old books, recent books. Reading books. Decorating books. All kinds of books. You'll find them at the Friends of the S.F. Public Library's 17th annual Book Sale starting May 14 at Pier 2, Fort Mason.

It's the biggest bargain bonanza of books in the West—and they're offered at prices that you will have to see to believe. The average price is $1. This means some cost more and a whole lot cost less.

The Sale opens with the traditional preview sale—free to members of the Friends and open to others who pay a $3 donation—from 5 to 8pm on Thursday, May 14. The sale is open to the public without admission charge on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 15, 16 and 17, with the doors open and the cash registers ringing from 10 am to 6 pm. On Sunday, every book left is half price.

Proceeds from the Sale are an important source of income for the Friends, helping to pay for free programs, book acquisitions, and special projects, all aimed at benefitting the Public Library, improving and extending library services.

More than a fund-raiser, the Book Sale offers a vast array of bargains for book lovers; it brings the Library to the attention of the entire community; and it provides entertainment for the entire family.

For information on the Sale or Friends of the Library membership call 558-3770.
